A 45-minute trip to Bosnia and Herzegovina

Everything you need is in this pack. No preparation beyond printing. Adapt the timing to your group.

- | | |
|---------------------|---|
| 0 to 5 min | Welcome. Show the map page and find Bosnia and Herzegovina together. Ask: who has been there, or knows someone from there? |
| 5 to 15 min | Read the facts at a glance, then three moments from the story: AD 9: Rome conquers the Illyrians; 1918: Part of a South Slav kingdom; 2022: EU candidate status. |
| 15 to 25 min | At the table: talk about evapi and Burek and other pita. Idea: bring a small taste (bread, cheese, fruit, tea) if your kitchen can help. |
| 25 to 30 min | Say it like a local: practise "Dobro jutro" (Good morning), "Dobar dan" (Good day, hello), "Merhaba" (Hello). Everyone says them together. |
| 30 to 40 min | Quiz: read the questions aloud, or play the big-screen version at https://worldstroll.com/countries/bosnia-and-herzegovina/group . No scores needed. |
| 40 to 45 min | Talk about it (questions page), then stamp or sign everyone's passport page. |

A short history of Bosnia and Herzegovina

Bosnia and Herzegovina's story runs from Illyrian tribes and Roman soldiers, through a medieval kingdom and four centuries of Ottoman rule, to Austria-Hungary, Yugoslavia, a painful war in the 1990s and a peace that still shapes the country today.

AD 9 Rome conquers the Illyrians

Local Illyrian tribes rose up against Rome in AD 6. After four years of hard fighting, one of Rome's most difficult wars, the revolt was put down in AD 9 and the land became part of the Roman Empire.

1189 The Charter of Ban Kulin

Ban Kulin, ruler of the Banate of Bosnia, promised the merchants of Dubrovnik free movement and trade across his land. Written on 29 August 1189 in Latin and in an early Slavic language, the charter is one of the oldest state documents of the region.

1377 Tvrtko crowned king

Ban Tvrtko Kotromani had himself crowned king, and Bosnia became a kingdom. By the 14th century it was the most powerful state in the western Balkans.

1448 Herzegovina gets its name

The nobleman Stjepan Vuki Kosaa took the title 'Herceg', from the German word Herzog, meaning duke. His lands in the south became known as Herzegovina, the duke's land.

1463 The Ottoman conquest

The Ottoman Empire conquered the Kingdom of Bosnia. Over the next four centuries Islam spread, and towns such as Sarajevo and Mostar grew into centres of trade with mosques, markets and bridges.

1577 The bridge at Višegrad is finished

The great Ottoman architect Mimar Sinan completed an 11-arched stone bridge over the Drina at Višegrad, ordered by the Grand Vizier Mehmed Paša Sokolovi. It later inspired the novel The Bridge on the Drina.

1878

Austria-Hungary takes over

At the Congress of Berlin, Austria-Hungary won the right to occupy and run Bosnia and Herzegovina, which stayed formally Ottoman. It annexed the country outright in 1908, and brought new laws, institutions and industries.

1914

Shots in Sarajevo

On 28 June 1914, Gavrilo Princip, a member of the Young Bosnia movement, shot dead Archduke Franz Ferdinand, heir to the Austro-Hungarian throne, near the Latin Bridge in Sarajevo. The killing set off the chain of events that led to the First World War.

1918

Part of a South Slav kingdom

After the First World War, Bosnia and Herzegovina became part of the new Kingdom of Serbs, Croats and Slovenes, which was renamed Yugoslavia in 1929.

1943

Wartime councils restore Bosnia

During the Second World War, in which more than 300,000 people from Bosnia and Herzegovina died, Tito's Partisan movement held councils in Mrkonji Grad and Jajce in November 1943. They restored Bosnia and Herzegovina as a republic within a future Yugoslav federation, which it became after the war.

1984

The Sarajevo Winter Olympics

In February 1984 Sarajevo hosted the XIV Winter Olympic Games, with more than 1,200 athletes from 49 countries. The Games were seen as a great success.

1992

Independence and war

After a referendum that most Bosnian Serbs boycotted, Bosnia and Herzegovina declared independence on 3 March 1992 and was recognised internationally on 6 April. War followed. Bosnian Serb forces, supported by Serbia, took control of much of the country, and from late 1992 to early 1994 Bosnian Croat and government forces also fought each other. Sarajevo was besieged for almost four years. More than 100,000 people were killed and over 2 million had to leave their homes.

1995

The Srebrenica genocide

In July 1995 Bosnian Serb forces took Srebrenica, which the United Nations had declared a safe area, and killed more than 8,000 Bosniak men and boys. The UN tribunal for the former Yugoslavia (in 2001, confirmed on appeal in 2004) and the International Court of Justice (in 2007) ruled that this was genocide. It is remembered every year on 11 July.

1995 The Dayton peace agreement

Peace talks at an air force base near Dayton, Ohio, ended the war in November 1995, and the agreement was formally signed in Paris on 14 December. It kept one state made up of two entities, the Federation of Bosnia and Herzegovina and Republika Srpska, with an international High Representative overseeing the peace.

2004 Mostar's Old Bridge reopens

Mostar's 16th-century Old Bridge, destroyed by shelling in November 1993, reopened on 23 July 2004 after being rebuilt with Ottoman building methods. A year later UNESCO added the Old Bridge area to the World Heritage List.

2022 EU candidate status

On 15 December 2022 the European Union made Bosnia and Herzegovina an official candidate for membership. In March 2024 EU leaders agreed in principle to open membership talks once further conditions are met.

What people eat in Bosnia and Herzegovina

Bosnian food brings together the Ottoman kitchen, Central Europe and the Mediterranean. Dishes are often slow-cooked in plenty of water, with vegetables, beef and lamb, and spices used lightly. Many Bosniaks, being Muslim, do not eat pork, while Serbs and Croats may. A meal may start with a warm soup such as begova orba, go on to a stew, stuffed vegetables or grilled meat with fresh bread, and end with a syrupy sweet and a small cup of strong coffee.

evapi (evapi)

All of the country, with famous styles from Sarajevo and Banja Luka

Small fingers of grilled minced beef, served five or ten at a time in a warm, soft flatbread called somun, with chopped raw onion and often kajmak, a rich clotted cream.

Burek and other pita (burek, pita)

All of the country

Paper-thin pastry rolled around a filling of minced meat, coiled into a big spiral and baked. In Bosnia only the meat version is called burek; with cheese it is sirnica, with potatoes krompiruša, and all of them together are called pita.

Spinach pie (zeljanica)

All of the country

A savoury pie of thin pastry filled with spinach, or sometimes chard, and fresh white cheese bound with egg. It is eaten warm or cold, for breakfast, lunch or supper.

Bey's soup (begova orba)

Sarajevo and all of the country, from the Ottoman period

A creamy chicken and vegetable soup with rice and dried okra, finished off the heat with soured cream, egg yolks and a squeeze of lemon. It is a festive dish offered to guests at weddings and religious holidays.

Stuffed onions (sogan-dolma)

Sarajevo and all of the country

Whole onion layers filled with minced beef, rice and spices, gently cooked in a light tomato sauce and served with soured cream or yogurt.

Cabbage and vine leaf rolls (sarma, japrak)

All of the country

Minced meat and rice rolled in pickled cabbage leaves, or in vine leaves, then slowly simmered in a pot.

Meat under the bell (meso ispod saa)

All of the country, especially the countryside

Lamb, veal or goat with potatoes, slowly roasted under a metal or clay lid called a sa, which is covered with hot coals and ashes.

Somun bread (somun)

Sarajevo and all of the country

A round, soft, flat bread with a golden crust, the classic bread for evapi. During Ramadan, a special Ramadan somun sprinkled with nigella seeds is baked.

Kajmak (kajmak)

All of the country; Travnik's kajmak is a local speciality

A thick, salty dairy spread made from milk fat, a little like clotted cream or a drier cream cheese. It is spread on bread and served with evapi.

Vlaši cheese (vlašiki or travniki sir)

Mount Vlaši, above Travnik in central Bosnia

A white, salty sheep's milk cheese ripened in brine for two to three months. It is served with bread, tomatoes and cured meats on a meze platter.

Walnut-stuffed apples (tufahija)

All of the country

Whole apples poached in sugar syrup and filled with chopped walnuts, served in a glass with their own syrup and a crown of whipped cream.

Baklava (baklava, ružice)

All of the country

Many layers of thin pastry and chopped walnuts, baked until crisp and soaked in sweet syrup, in the Middle Eastern style that shaped many Bosnian sweets.

Syrup cakes (hurmašice)

All of the country

Small cakes shaped like dates, with a ridged top, baked and then drenched in sweet syrup.

Bosnian coffee (bosanska kahva)

All of the country

Strong, finely ground coffee boiled with water in a small pot and poured, grounds and all, into small cups. It is drunk slowly, and in cafés and homes all over the country.

Fried dough puffs (uštipci)

All of the country

Soft, bread-like balls of fried dough, served savoury with kajmak or cheese for breakfast, or sweet with jam or icing sugar.

GOOD MANNERS

At the table

- Guests visiting a home are almost always offered coffee, together with something sweet made at home.
- Bread is served with nearly every savoury meal.
- Pork is not eaten by many Bosniaks, who are mostly Muslim, so beef, lamb and chicken are the most common meats. Ask before offering pork to a guest.
- When glasses are raised, people say 'Živjeli!' (cheers).
- Drinking coffee together is a daily custom and an important part of any social visit.
- During Ramadan, restaurants may separate guests who are eating during fasting hours from other guests, so be discreet.

evapi

Small fingers of grilled minced beef, served five or ten at a time in a warm, soft flatbread called somun, with chopped raw onion and often kajmak, a rich clotted cream.

Ingredients

- 800 g minced beef, not too lean (about 20% fat)
- 1 teaspoon salt and ½ teaspoon black pepper
- ½ teaspoon bicarbonate of soda (optional, for a lighter texture)
- 2 tablespoons cold water
- 4 pieces of somun or other soft flatbread, or pitta bread
- 1 onion, finely chopped
- Kajmak, soured cream or ajvar pepper relish, to serve

Method

1. Mix the beef with the salt, pepper, bicarbonate of soda and cold water. Knead with your hands for 3 to 4 minutes until sticky, then cover and chill for at least 1 hour.
2. With wet hands, shape the meat into fingers about 8 cm long and as thick as a thumb.
3. Heat a grill, barbecue or heavy frying pan until very hot. Cook the evapi for 8 to 10 minutes, turning often, until browned outside and cooked all the way through with no pink in the middle.
4. Warm the bread on the grill for a few seconds on each side, and cut it open like a pocket.
5. Put five to ten evapi in each bread with chopped onion and a spoonful of kajmak or soured cream. Serve at once.

Spinach pie

A savoury pie of thin pastry filled with spinach, or sometimes chard, and fresh white cheese bound with egg. It is eaten warm or cold, for breakfast, lunch or supper.

Ingredients

- 500 g ready-made filo pastry sheets
- 600 g fresh spinach, washed, or 400 g frozen spinach, thawed and squeezed dry
- 300 g fresh white cheese, such as cottage cheese or crumbled feta
- 3 eggs
- 150 ml soured cream or plain yogurt
- 100 ml sunflower oil, plus a little for the tin
- Salt, to taste

Method

1. If using fresh spinach, wilt it in a large pan for 2 minutes, drain well, squeeze out the water and chop it.
2. Mix the spinach with the cheese, eggs and soured cream. Add salt carefully, as the cheese may already be salty.
3. Heat the oven to 200°C and oil a round or square baking tin of about 28 cm.
4. Lay a filo sheet on the worktop and brush it lightly with oil. Spread a line of filling along one long edge and roll it up loosely into a long sausage. Coil it in the tin, starting from the middle, and repeat with the rest of the pastry and filling.
5. Brush the top with oil and bake for 35 to 40 minutes until deep golden. Rest for 10 minutes, then cut into wedges.

Bey's soup

A creamy chicken and vegetable soup with rice and dried okra, finished off the heat with soured cream, egg yolks and a squeeze of lemon. It is a festive dish offered to guests at weddings and religious holidays.

Ingredients

- 2 chicken legs or 500 g chicken on the bone
- 1.5 litres water and 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 carrots, 1 small celery root or parsley root, diced
- 60 g rice, cooked separately
- A handful of dried okra, soaked in water for 30 minutes (or 100 g fresh okra, sliced)
- 2 egg yolks (use pasteurised yolks if serving pregnant women, young children, older people or anyone with a weak immune system)
- 150 ml soured cream
- Juice of ½ lemon

Method

1. Simmer the chicken in the salted water for about 45 minutes, until tender. Lift it out, take the meat off the bones and cut it into small pieces. Strain the broth.
2. Put the broth back on the heat with the carrots, celery root and okra, and simmer for 20 minutes until soft.
3. Add the chicken and cooked rice and heat through for 5 minutes. Season with lemon juice and salt. Take the pan off the heat.
4. Whisk the egg yolks with the soured cream. Stir in a ladle of hot soup, then pour the mixture into the pan, stirring. Do not let the soup boil again, or it will curdle.
5. Serve at once, with bread.

Walnut-stuffed apples

Whole apples poached in sugar syrup and filled with chopped walnuts, served in a glass with their own syrup and a crown of whipped cream.

Ingredients

- 6 firm, sharp apples, such as Granny Smith
- 300 g sugar and 1 litre water
- Juice of 1 lemon
- 120 g walnuts, finely chopped
- 2 tablespoons of the sugar syrup or honey, to bind the walnuts
- 200 ml whipping cream, whipped
- A few cherries or pieces of fruit to decorate (optional)

Method

1. Peel the apples and remove the cores with a corer, leaving them whole. Rub them with lemon juice.
2. Bring the water, sugar and remaining lemon juice to the boil in a wide pan. Add the apples and simmer gently for 10 to 15 minutes, turning them, until just tender but still holding their shape. Lift them out.
3. Boil the syrup for another 10 minutes until it thickens a little. Leave to cool.
4. Mix the walnuts with 2 tablespoons of syrup or honey and press the mixture into the holes in the apples.
5. Place each apple in a glass or bowl, pour over some syrup, top with whipped cream and decorate. Serve chilled, with coffee.

Things you might not know

1. Bosnia and Herzegovina has only about 20 km of coastline, all of it around the town of Neum. The strip of land dates back to the Treaty of Karlowitz in 1699, when the Republic of Dubrovnik gave it to the Ottomans as a buffer against Venice.
2. Sarajevo hosted the 1984 Winter Olympics, the first Winter Games held in a Slavic-speaking country. The host nation, Yugoslavia, won its first ever Winter Olympic medal there, a silver in the giant slalom.
3. The name Herzegovina comes from 'herceg', a local form of the German word Herzog, meaning duke. It was the title taken in 1448 by the nobleman Stjepan Vuki Kosaa.
4. The country's currency, the convertible mark, was named after the old German Deutsche Mark, to which it was tied one to one. The 10, 20, 50 and 100 KM notes come in two designs, one for each entity, and both are valid everywhere.
5. The Sarajevo Haggadah, a beautifully illustrated Jewish book for the Passover meal, was made in northern Spain around 1350. It is kept in the National Museum in Sarajevo and was added to UNESCO's Memory of the World register in 2017.
6. The writer Ivo Andrić, born in Travnik in 1892, won the Nobel Prize in Literature in 1961. He grew up in Višegrad, and his best-known novel, The Bridge on the Drina, is named after the town's Ottoman bridge.
7. Young men of Mostar have long leapt from the Old Bridge into the cold Neretva, 24 metres below. A formal diving competition has been held every summer since 1968, and since 2015 the bridge has been a stop on the Red Bull Cliff Diving World Series.
8. As of 2026, Vjetrenica Cave in Herzegovina is considered the richest cave in the world for underground wildlife. More than 200 species have been recorded in it, and about 37 were described for the first time there.
9. Tuzla has salt lakes in the middle of the city. The first, the Pannonian Lake, opened in 2003 and is filled with salt water from deep underground, a trace of an ancient sea that dried up millions of years ago.
10. Sarajevo's trams began on New Year's Day in 1885, pulled by horses. The line was a testing ground for trams in Vienna and the rest of Austria-Hungary, and electric trams followed in 1895.

11. About 60,000 medieval carved tombstones called steci are found in Bosnia and Herzegovina. They were used by Catholic, Orthodox and Bosnian Church believers alike, from the 12th to the early 16th century.
12. The Sarajevo Film Festival was first held in the autumn of 1995, while the city was still under siege. About 15,000 people came to see 37 films. As of 2026, it is the best-known film festival in South-East Europe, with more than 100,000 visitors a year.
13. The Charter of Ban Kulin, written in 1189, is known as the oldest work written in the old Bosnian Cyrillic script, called bosanica.
